DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-4 are allowed.
2. The Examiner agrees with the Applicant's Remarks filed on 28 December 2005, and offers the following statement of reasons for allowance:

The primary reason for allowance is the limitation of performing a single imaging step, wherein both a mount portion on which a chip is to be mounted next and a portion on which a chip has just been mounted are imaged in the same visual field, and wherein the single image is used both for position detection of the chip mount portion for bonding the next chip and for inspection of the previously mounted chip.

The prior art generally teaches either the use of two separate cameras for simultaneous chip positioning and post-bonding inspection (see JP 06-132325 to Ozaki), or the use of two separate imaging steps for imaging the substrate immediately before chip positioning and for imaging the substrate for inspection immediately after chip positioning (see US 2003/0110623 to Haji et al. (particularly paragraph 0073) and US 2003/0029033 to Hidese et al). These prior art configurations suffer the disadvantages of either a late correction of bonding defects, thus leading to a large number of defective packages, in the case of using multiple simultaneous cameras (see specification of present application, pages 1-2), or very slow production of bonded packages, in the case where the same camera takes multiple images (see specification, page 2). The closest prior art of record provides no suggestion of imaging plural chip mount locations in the same field of view such that both pre-mounting positioning of a chip and post-mounting inspection of a previously mounted chip can be performed using a single image acquired by a single camera.

Since this configuration, as claimed by the Applicant, solves a recognized problem in the art by efficiently performing chip positioning and bonding inspection without suffering from the disadvantages of the prior art methods, and since the prior art provides no suggestion of the claimed configuration, it is the Examiner's opinion that the invention as claimed is well beyond the purview of a person having ordinary skill in the art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
